Steve

I am writing to thank you for the complimentary coaching sessions you have provided over the past four weeks.

I have found our meetings extremely useful and at times, most inspirational. I am particularly grateful for your assistance with the production of my flyer.

I'm sure it will come as no surprise to you that due to financial reasons, I will not be able to use your services at this time, given the slow start to my business. However, should there be an opportunity in the future; I would like to think we will be able to work together again. In the meantime, I shall have no hesitation in proactively recommending your services to others and I look forward to seeing you at networking events.

Again, my sincere thanks for the coaching sessions and business advice to date. If I can offer you a free 'shop' at any time, I would be delighted to return the favour.

Best wishes

Diane
