John Collins

John worked as one of the coaches on the High Growth Company Support programme that we piloted for the East Midlands Development Agency 2005-2007.

The programme was very successful and the company John worked with experienced some of the most impressive growth of any of the 20 companies we engaged with. He very quickly established a good rapport with the directors of the company, and made a useful contribution in a whole variety of areas.

In manufacturing John's "get on with the job", pragmatic style works really well - by the end of the programme he was clearly seen as one of the team. Even though the programme has now come to an end, we would be surprised if John does not continue his involvement with the company in some capacity for many years to come.
